Dear Parents / Carers,

It is the time of year when we shift our focus and start thinking about preparing the pupils in school for the next step they will take in our school, into the next year group.

We have started to plan the transition activities we will be doing in school during the final three weeks of the term and we have thought about which teachers will be going into which year groups and how many classes we will be having across school.

There have been many factors to consider this year when making our plans. I am referring particularly to how the pandemic has affected the children, both with their learning needs and from a social perspective.

With this in mind, we have made the decision to mix the classes again ready for September. As you know, in previous years, we have asked for your input with doing this. However, the factors affecting the dynamics of classes are so complex and wide ranging, we do not feel that this will help us to get the classes right for next year. I appreciate that this may not be the most popular decision with parents but we feel that teachers and other staff in school are best placed to make the decisions around which children should be in the same classes next year and we hope that you will trust us to put the children where we believe they will learn to their full potential.

As always, thank you for your continued support and understanding.

Yours sincerely,

Vicki Kerr
